Robotic Integration

The selection of the right robot integrator is always key in ensuring that the very significant investment involved in automating equipment or processes yield the expected returns. Eclipse Automation has the extensive experience needed to successfully integrate either single cell robots or entire production lines.

Over the years we have installed most of the leading robot brands and have the "in house" controls expertise to interface with the majority of the popular machine controls in use today.

More than just a robot integrator, Eclipse Automation Inc. ensures the quality of your installation by having the capability to produce end of arm tooling and ancillary equipment within our own facility. Ever mindful of safety, all of our installations conform to CSA-Z434 and ANSI/RIA R15.06.
